DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 6, which depends on claim 5, is confusing, because claim 6 implies plural, simultaneous types of said received communication from the subscriber, while the claim 5 teaches only one type.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Quatse et al. (US 5,991,368) in view of Trell (US 6,393,117).

Quatse et al. (Hereinafter Quatse) teaches customer information announcement method and system, comprising:

Independent Claims.

Claims 1 and 21-24. Maintaining database (list) of customers (column 1, lines 51-52); receiving dialed digits from a calling party corresponding to a phone number (column 3, lines 10-12); attempting to place a phone call connection from said calling party through the network to said phone number (column 3, lines 13-16); determining that said phone number is one of a changed phone number (column 3, lines 32-33); communicating with said calling party to offer additional information related to the telephone number entered (column 5, lines 10-12).

Quatse does not specifically teach that said additional information includes inquiry for determination whether said calling party may be interested in subscribing to any available additional phone number.

Trell teaches a telephonic method and system, wherein a subscriber is offered an additional telephone number from a list of available, unused telephone numbers (column 1, lines 49-50; column 5, lines 45-49).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Quatse to include determining whether said calling party may be interested in subscribing to any available additional phone number, because the subscription would generate additional revenue to telephone companies, as specifically stated in Trell (column 5, lines 44-50).

Dependent Claims.

Claim 2. See claim 1.

Claim 3. Quatse teaches: automatically communicating to the subscriber (column 4, line 63 – column 5, line 14).

Claims 4-6. See claim 1.

Claims 7-9. Trell teaches: generating said at least one second phone number (column 5, lines 44-50).

Claims 11-13. See claim 1.

Claim 14. Trell teaches said method and system, wherein said calling party is one of a service provider, telephone operator, and directory assistance provider (column 2, lines 50-58).

Claim 15. See claim 1.

Claim 16. Quatse teaches: receiving dialed digits entered by said calling party, said digits identifying a selected one of said options offered (column 5, lines 1-14).

Art Unit: 3629

Claim 17. Trell teaches: receiving speech from said calling party by operator (column 5, lines 58-59).

Claims 18-19. Trell teaches said method and system, wherein the subscriber initiates additional phone number request before said additional phone number is determined (column 2, lines 50-63).

Claim 20. Quatse teaches: receiving a communication from the subscriber wherein said received communication is any communication other than that of a subscriber initiated request for subscribing to an available phone number (column 2, lines 8-9).

Claim 25. See claim 1.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Quatse and Trell.

Claim 10. Quatse and Trell teach all the limitations of claim 10, except that the first phone number and said second phone number are one of a contiguous, same area code, same central exchange, and same block of 10, 100, 1,000 or 10,000 numbers.

However, these differences are only found in the nonfunctional descriptive material and are not functionally involved in the steps recited. The "Determining" through "Communicating" steps would be performed the same regardless of the specifics of numbers generated. Thus, this descriptive material will not distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art in terms of patentability, see In re Gulack, 703 F.2d 1381, 1385, 217 USPQ 401, 404 (Fed. Cir. 1983); In re Lowry, 32 F.3d 1579, 32 USPQ2d 1031 (Fed. Cir. 1994).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure (see form PTO-892).
